to New Westminster for eight or nine months In the year. This road would also be a decided benefit to the whole Province, apart from the considerations above noted, for the additional reason that it would open up a large tract of good land suitable for settle ment, which, without such a road, cannot be atilized for any purpose whatever. The necessity for a road between the points named has never been called in question, nor how to acquire the ways and means to pay for its construction, is a question requiring serious consideration. Should the Goverament undertake the work, the sooner it can be pushed through to completion, the setter for all concerned. But how is money to be raised to do it? The easiest method would likely be to borrow it, but whether the Government would feel disposed to go about it in that way, we are not in a position to express an opinion. There is another way by which a portion at least of the cost of construction might be met, viz., (1 Taby the issue of a certain amount of scrip, earing a low rate of interest, redeemable by Government in exchange for land in any part of the Province, the said scrip being made negotiable, so that the holders thereof. If they did not wish to convert it into land, might dispose of it at a small rate of dis-

this a part, and possibly the whole of the road, might be made at a cost of little or nothing in actual cash to the Government. The Lillooet district also requires an outlet for its productions, which the Government would do well to turn their attention to, so MR. G. W. JESTER son as they can see their way clear to do so. The Man with the Talking Hand and Greatest Ventrile ch an outlet may be found at Burrard Intance being only about 125 miles This can be accomplished by the trail which season, and known as the "Howe Sound We do not, however, think is would be advisable to terminate this trail at Howe Senat, as explorations have proved that it can be brought to Burrard Inlet, via Seymour creek, which enters the lalet a short distance above Moody's mills; and at Burrard lalet there is always a good market, should producers wish to sell there, and toria, where a ready market can always be found for what producers have to sell. No doubt this trail will be expensive to build, accordingly about Seaton and Anderson lakes, but it will open up the finest agricultural and pastoral district in the Province; and, is fact, thousands of dollars in the past and in the future would have been saved to the Province if the wagon road had been built abore in the first place.

> Charges Against Lue vily Police Porce.

As enquiry was held at the City Chambers yesterday, to investigate a charge brought against the police force, asserting delay inarresting a prisoner, and absence from duty. His Worship the Mayor, and A. C. Elliott, Esq., S.M., were on the bench, and explained the purport of the investigation. The first witness called was-

W. F. Herre, who gave evidence to the fol-lowing effect: When I was before the grand jury, I did not make myself understood property ; I meant to infer that I could not find Inspector of Police when I went to look for him. His Worship-You distinctly stated, Mr. Herre, that you could not find any police-man at all from nine o'clock in the morning, until nine o'clock at night, and of thought that if such really were the case, an investi-gation ought to be bad. I think it is a very take that you or any other citizen should make any such statement, unless it be well founded, for it is calculated to mislead the grand jury, and reflect greatly upon Mr. Herre—I thought it proper for the ends of justice to find the Inspector of police be-fore I made my object generally known. By Inspector bowden —I went into the barrack room and saw policemen, but did not tell them my business, I only asked for the Inspector Bowdea-Had Mr. Herre asked any policeman for me, I could have been found at once attending to my duty, either on Cormorant, Johnson, or Government sts. I do not think Mr. Herre went up stairs at all to the barrack room.

Mr. Herre—I was upstairs twice, and saw policemen lying on the beds, and I think I ness who caused all the delay in the case of Corbe. The grand jury reported delay, but it was Mr. Herre's own fault; he went to the court when he pleased, and stopped away for the grand jury.

Gaoler Wollacott-I think it was about two Sundays ago that Mr. Herre came to the gaol and rang the bell. He was anxious to et the assistance of the police. I think Mr. erre went up states. Constable Beecher and Sergeant Bloomfield gare evidence as to Mr. Herre's coming to the gaol, and wanting to see the Inspector but refusing to state his business. His Worship, after hearing the various statements, said he thought that Mr. Herre hed made a mistake, but he had explained it away to a certain extent. He however appeared to have been the means of casting a re-dection apon the police force, which was un-called for and unenviable. Mr. Herre asked leave to make a remark be thought that when the police went to the Driest-House to take charge of goods which were stolen, they executed their duty in a very loose manner. Mr. Perry, C.P.R.S., called-Said that the policeman who took charge of the goods stolen, used his own discretion as to what he took. Those things which I identified, the police took into their possession. Office Seecher said that a sextant was handed to him by Mr. Perry.

Isspector Bowden—Well, your Worship, here Mr. Herre swears that he saw the constable take it out of a bag ; how can you believe his statements?

Mr. Perry—I think the constable did his duty most efficiently.

His Worship—If the prisoner had escaped punishment, I think perhaps Mr. Herre might have some grounds for complaint, but the evidence has been sufficient to convict. also think, Mr. Herre, that your complaint as to delay in effecting the arrest of the prisonerror Corbe, and the incomplete search for stolen property, is altogether unwarranted. I regret that such an unfounded charge should have been made, but I am very glad that this investigation has been held inasmuch as the character and general good standing of the

(Hear, bear.)

Mr. Elliott, S.M., also regretted that a charge without foundation had been brought against the police, as such was calculated to cause misunderstanding, and perhaps frus-trate the ends of justice. (Hear, hear.) The court then rose.

Tun Wastan Paovinces.-British Columbia bolds her place in this Union under pledge to give her intercourse with the Atlantic by railway. Manitoba rests all her prospects of development under the faithful discharge of that obligation. Now, the Grits stand at this moment responsible to Columbia and Manitoba for the loss of, at all events, twelve months, in the enjoyment of that boon—a loss occasioned by the factions and false clamour that has made the negotiations of Sir Hugh Allan in England imposable. How, under these circumstances, can any member of the House of Commons, from Manitoba or Columbia, think for one moment of voting against a Ministry that is now setually on trial because of its auxiery to prese the Pacific Railway to good faith in the teath of the factions and dishonorable opposition of the Grits?—Ottowa Times, 30th utt.

BRITISE COLUMBIA AND THE DOMINION .- Mr. McDonald of Picton, the mover of the amend ment in the Commons, given in another column, in his speech made the following appropriate remarks with regard to the position of the Western Provinces should the bargain to build the railway not be fulfilled. The says: 4 If that policy was complete, but that pelicy was not complete, be would like to ask what this union would be without the great Pacific road? This case, which is one of the much talked of Quarantine claims, was heard a fortnight ago, Mr. Drake appearing for the plaintiff, and Mr. McCreight, -instructed by Messra. Robertson and Johnson, -for the defence. The claim was for services rendered in tak ing charge of the smal pox hospital at Beqcon Hill.

The defence denied, not the performance of the services, but the liability of the Corporation ; and several unsuccessful attempts were made to stop the case, on the ground that the Dominion Government were about to settle all the Quarantine claims. The judge vesterday gave judgment for the defendants, or oints of law. It is understood that the laintiff intends to appeal to the Supreme Court.

Mr. Mathan and the Pacific Railway Scandal.

EDITOR STANDARD :- The 14th clause of the Commissioners' report on the Pacific Railway Scandal is as follows: "The other two, Mr. Henry Nathan and Mr. Donald Smith, are resident the former in British Columbia and the latter in Manitoba. The distance and shot, consequent delay in securing their attendance. Sev ance, and the large outlay it will cause, render it inexpedient in the judgment of the Commission to call them to give evidence."
Now, was Mr. Nathan resident in this Pro-fines at the time the Commission sat? It so, one to see him. Perhaps Mr. Nathan, wherever he was, found it most convenient to keep out of the way of the Commission; I cannot help thinking, however, that his constituents would have been much better satisfied if he had attended the sitting, and given his evidence in a straightforward manner.

On the second day of the debate on the reply to the Governor-General's speech, at the opening of Parliament, Sir Francis Hincks, ne of the British Columbia representatives, the member for Vancouver, who had moved ply to the strictures made upon him by Mr. fluntington. He had been charged with having descended from his high position as Governor of one of her Majesty's colonies to take a seat in the Dominion Cabinet, and it was said also by the member for Shefford that he had been seduced from the Liberal ranks on seeing the Pacific Railway contract looming up in the distance. With regard to those charges, he only said that he counted it as ne disgrace to be one of the Queen's servants in Canada. He quoted the cases of Lord Monck and Lord Lisgar, both of whom, after ruling the Dominion, had thought it no disgrace to take positions of lesser rank in the service of her Majesty. The present unworthy act. As to the stat ment that he had been seduced from the Liberal ranks by the view of the Pacific contract, he only said that he was still a Liberal, as he had always been, and that when he entered the present Government the Pacific Railway had hardly been dreamt of. Sir Francis then briefly re ferred to the scandalous means adopted by the Opposition to secure a conviction upon the charges now before the country; as for instance the infamous rumor that the Premier had committed suicide, which seemed to have originated with Mr. Huntington. That hon. gentleman made charges against the Ministry on the strength of stolen documents and eavesdroppings, and then attempted to snatch a verdict from the people without allowing the accused an opportunity of clearing themselves. The members of the Government were ready to go into the witness box at any moment, but their prosecutors had first refused to accept the only available means of obtaining the evidence under oath, and then absented themselves when that means had been provided in another way. Sir Francis concluded his address, which
